Jumpin youth counselling

This is a service for young people of the town of Winterthur

For young people between the age of 13 and 18, who are in transition from school to the professional and adult life.

Why do young people come to us

- because school and free time are challenging
- because they need support in finding an apprenticeship or another suitable connecting solution
- because there are conflicts with peers and adults
- because they need help with crises and difficulties in their actual phase of life

We want to reach our aims together

- young people can remain in school and finish the regular school
- young people find an apprenticeship or another suitable connecting solution

Our services

- working together on solution steps
- support in finding a profession and an apprenticeship
- support in finding another suitable connecting solution, for example a year for professional preparation
- mediation and counselling when conflicts occur
- support in difficult situations by social workers
- support in a challenging every day school life
- 1 to 2 counselling appointments per week over a period of minimum 3 months
- lunch on Wednesday

Our values

- a confidential contact to the young people is the basis of the teamwork
- we work with the strength of the young people and their aims
- parents are very important for the development of their children. We therefore cultivate an appreciative way of working together
- We closely work together with all participants (schools, authorities, institutions and so on)
- confidential handling of information

Registration

- young people or parents can contact us directly
- young people can also be registered or referred to by schools (teachers, school social workers, head teachers or authorities)
- after having taken contact, a first non committing talk will be arranged. Afterwards the young people and jumping decide together on an entry
- Our services are free of charge
